

Myanmar

Child protection

unicef for every child

What do we want to change?

21%

of mine victims are children

6,000 children and young people in arbitrary detention

90%

of young people lack access to mental health care

What are our priorities?

Advocate for prevention and respond to grave violations against children

Access to justice for children arbitrarily arrested/detained

Mental health and psychosocial support for children, young people and caregivers

Landmine risk education and victim assistance for

What are we doing?

Empower communities to detect and respond to child protection issues early Provide care and protection services to children without parental care

Provide integrated and life-saving child protection services

Coordinate mine action and risk education for children and communities

Counselling and community-based mental health care for children, including in local languages

Capacity building for frontline workers on child protection, confidential reporting of child rights violations, and physical and sexual abuse and exploitation Engaging parties to the conflict to prevent and address grave violations

What did we accomplish in 2023?

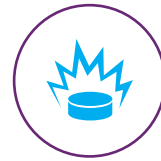

13,753

children and youth assisted with access to justice, including with justice hotlines in ethnic languages

242,364

children and caregivers reached with mental health and psychosocial support people, including 52,195 children, reached with mine and explosive ordnance interventions

138,855

17,042

child protection kits distributed in high-risk areas

27,089

children and adolescents received gender-based violence services

What do we need?

Grave violations against children, including child recruitment, to be prevented by all parties to the conflict

Access to vulnerable children in armed conflict and disaster areas to provide life-saving child protection services

Community-based reintegration of child victims of grave violations, including children formerly associated with parties to the conflict

Sustainable investment in justice services for children in contact with the law and arbitrarily arrested/detained

Continued expansion of integrated MHPSS services in basic service provision

US$33.1 million for child protection humanitarian programming
